Communities to design Children's Services

By Harold Wollin
St. Paul Journal

Elk Point residents are a little closer to understanding the complexity of the new children's services portion of Alberta's social service network following a meeting in Elk Point on Wednesday.

"It's about children, families and healthy communities," said Mel Kuprowsky, regional director of Northeast Community Planning and Development.

An extra $50 million has been allocated for the early intervention and prevention portion of the plan. Half of that money is set aside for aboriginal communities, who can involve themselves in the regions or set up their own independent organizations.

Kuprowsky described how the fragmented government bureaucracy has made access to services a challenging feat. The new plan seeks to integrate planning services between Justice, Health, Education, Aboriginal Affairs and Family and Social Services. Alberta communities are being asked to help redesign the whole system from the grassroots up.

The province has been divided into 17 regions, based on the 17 health authority boundaries. Elk Point fits into region number 12, which also includes Sherwood Park, Fort Saskatchewan, Lac La Biche, St. Paul and Bonnyville.

The diverse communities in each region will have three years to come together and identify their common problem areas, and develop a plan of action. Transitional teams are being set up now, to choose steering committees who will eventually set the course for the regional authorities. May 30 is the deadline for steering committee nominations.

For information on how to get involved, call Terri Ehlert at the Elk Point F.C.S.S., 724-3800.

Spring Classic Stampede coming May 13-14

By Charlene Baker
Elk Point Agricultural Society

- Spring is here and it's almost rodeo time again! This year should be better than ever. The Elk Point Agricultural Society Fairgrounds and Livestock Division Spring Classic Stampede will be held May 13 and 14 and is dual sanctioned this year, with the Lakeland Rodeo Association and Wild Rose Rodeo Association.

The Wild Cow Milking contest is back by popular demand and will go both days instead of one. The Wild Ride will be taking the place of the Suicide Ride this year. Rough stock contestants will come out individually in costume and be judged on the creativity and their ride.

New this year will be the half time Calf Scramble for all the kids in the stands.

Once again we have had a great response with our event sponsors and we wish to thank all the businesses for their continued support.

The Chamber is again sponsoring a "Dress Western" contest for rodeo week.

There will be a beer garden in a tent during the day and at night you can dance to the music of the Grant West Band in the Livestock Arena. Come out and enjoy the music, the acoustics in this building are great and unbeatable.

Come out and enjoy the Spring Classic Stampede! See you there!

Paul Langevin goes Tory

By Rob Desjardins
Staff Writer

MLA Paul Langevin ended months of speculation this week by crossing the floor to sit under Ralph Klein's Progressive Conservatives.

The move comes one year after Langevin, who was elected in 1993 under the Liberal banner, abandoned Laurence Decore's caucus to sit as an Independent.

In an interview on Thursday, Langevin said he made his decision over the Easter weekend.

"I decided that I was ready to commit to the Conservatives because their agenda is so close to the one I campaigned on," he said.

"The Liberals left their position after the election. But I stayed true to my promises and beliefs, and ended up voting with the government 90 per cent of the time."

Premier Klein, who was in St. Paul for a meeting with Langevin and the local P.C. Association on Wednesday, said he was "very proud and happy" as a result of Langevin's decision.

"Paul has done a commendable job over the past year as an independent," he told the Journal after the meeting.

"He wanted to take a year to assess us, and concluded that what we're doing is generally the right thing. He felt that with us, he could to the best for the constituency — that he could do a lot better as a government member."

The PC caucus, Klein said, voted unanimously to accept him.

At Wednesday's meeting, the directors of the local PC Association also voted to endorse Langevin, though his announcement, which was given at 12:45 p.m. on Tuesday, came as a surprise to many of them.

"When the motion was passed, it was very clear the people were behind him and had agreed to accept him," president Linda Yurdiga said Friday.

"Not everyone is happy with the decision, however — that's a given."

Mayor John Trefanenko, who ran as a PC against Langevin in the 1993 election, says he is very upset by the move.

"Langevin's move to the PC caucus was an act of desperation with strong overtones of opportunism," he said Friday.

"I'm sure he believes the Conservatives will bring him long-term job security. He realizes that he can't win the next election as an independent." (Continued on Page 2)

Top dogs graduate with honors

Three Elk Point area pets earned top honors at the April 20 graduation ceremonies of the Elk Point Further Education Dog Obedience School, after nine weeks of training under the instruction of Frank Midgley of Marwayne.

Prancer, a Sheltie owned and handled by Heather Bjornstad, came first in the class, with a score of 196 points out of 200.

Second place was earned by Wizard, a toy Poodle owned by Isobel Myshaniuk, with a score of 188, just edging out Prince, a Border Collie - Lab cross owned by Brian Schnurer, who was third with 187 points.

A total of 26 dogs and 26 handlers took part in the course, which was held at the Quality Time Tours bus depot, with Sandy Henderson enthusiastically and cooperatively providing warm space for the training.

Another series of Obedience classes is planned to start September 21. Any interested dog owners may contact Verona Lea Flanders for more information at 724-4101 or 724-2269.

Paul Langevin goes Tory

Trefanenko said the MLA, who will have to "eat a lot of crow" as a result of the move, was also unwise to make his announcement before consulting with the local association.

However, both Langevin and Klein said they had planned to consult with the association, but were forced to announce the move early because of a media leak.

"There was tremendous speculation, and we just couldn't hold it back," Klein said.

While he was unavailable for comment following Trefanenko's statement, Langevin did say earlier in the week that his actions were motivated exclusively by the interests of the constituency.

"When I met with the premier, I said I'm not here seeking any kind of benefits. I just want to be able to better serve the constituency by being on the government side."

And that task, according to Klein, will be a decidedly challenging one.

"We'll be talking to him to find out his specific interests, and get him on various committees," he said.

"He'll find out what it means to be a government MLA. You're a lot busier."

Six ways for a more relaxed you

With winter nearing the end of its last phase, we are getting a bit tense, waiting for spring and summer. Here are some suggestions on how to relax and take a bit of the stress out of your life.

1. Scents: Pleasurable scents, whether it be herbs or a favorite perfume, ease you. Here are a few natural scents that have restorative qualities: Jasmine - relaxes, warms and energizes; Eucalyptus - purifies the air and eases breathing; Peppermint - cools and stimulates; rosemary - relaxes stressed muscles.

2. Try Making Time For Yourself: This may have to be early in the morning to avoid the activities of your family. You can have a bath, go for a walk or just read. Do something you don't have time for usually. Remove some of the hassle by preparing lunches and dinners ahead of time, set out your clothes the night before and put leftovers in the freezer for next time.

3. Laughter: Humor is really the best way to ease those tensions. It has been "proven" that it is impossible to truly laugh and feel stress at the same time. Make yourself a laugh first-aid kit - gather up some funny magazines, comics or even a videotape with something really funny on it. Set it aside for any time when you feel like you need a good laugh.

4. Imagination: Use your wonderful imagination to create a situation or a place you would rather be... or even just make one up. The key is to get your mind off your problems, even just for a moment. But make sure you have fun with what you imagine.

5. Call a Friend: Talk to someone who you trust and can confide in. Discuss your troubles, and it will help you identify what the actual problem is. And, it is fun to talk to your friends, discussing even the most menial happenings in your life.

6. Make a Happy List: Sit down, especially if you're feeling really overwhelmed, and write down what you want to do - perhaps your wish list for the future. This will also give you the opportunity to realize what you have and also realize what you want to strive for.

THE GOOSE STORY..
The Benefits of Volunteerism

This fall when you see geese heading south for the winter flying along in a "v" formation, you might be interested in knowing what science has discovered about why they fly that way. It has been learned that as each bird flaps its wings, it creates an uplift for the bird immediately following. By flying in a "v" formation, the whole flock adds at least 71% greater flying range than if each bird flew on its own. (People who share a common direction and sense of community can get where they are going quicker and easier, because they are travelling on the thrust of one another.)

Whenever a goose falls out of formation, it suddenly feels the drag and resistance of trying to go it alone, and quickly gets into formation to take advantage of the lifting power of the bird immediately in front. (If we have as much sense as a goose, we will stay in formation with those who are headed the same way we are going.) When the lead goose gets tired, he rotates back in the wing and another goose flies point. (It pays to take turns doing hard jobs - with people or with geese flying south.) The geese honk from behind to encourage those up front to keep up their speed. (What do we say when we honk from behind?)

Finally (now I want you to get this), when a goose gets sick, or is wounded by gunshots and falls out, two geese fall out of formation and follow him down to help and protect him. They stay with him until he is either able to fly or he is dead, and they then launch out on their own or with another formation to catch up with the group. (If we have the sense of a goose, we will stand by each other like that.) -Author unknown

Remembering the war

Celebrations across the nation and across Europe in the next few days will mark the 50th anniversary of the Allied Victory in Europe. Street dances in Ottawa will recreate the festive atmosphere the news brought to Canadians, and parades and ceremonies will honor the veterans who fought in that long ago conflict.

For many of them, the horrors of war have still not gone away. Many returned with some form of disability which effects their quality of life half a century later. For many on the home front, there are only memories - their loved ones did not live to come back home.

Almost six years of conflict on foreign soil, in the air and on the oceans took close to 47,000 Canadian lives, and injured over 50,000 more. Many Canadians were also devastated by the loss of family members in European homelands.

Wartime life here in Canada was also a struggle, with many of the able-bodied men off fighting, and women leaving their kitchens to take up jobs on factory assembly lines and in industry.

It was a hard time for all. Those who survived still remember their part in those difficult years, and the part played by friends and relatives in attaining the peace we now enjoy.

So many died for this peace. Let us remember the sacrifice they made for this country and for the countries they liberated, as we commemorate fifty years since the peace bells rang over Europe.

Canada Remembers

The role of the Merchant Navy

CANADA REMEMBERS is Canada's national and international program aimed at commemorating the 50th anniversary of the end of the Second World War, and ensuring that Canada's participation in the war is appropriately honored.

Canada's Merchant Navy was vital to the Allied cause during the Second World War. Its ships transported desperately needed equipment, fuel, goods and personnel to Europe and around the world. Merchant seamen and women showed tremendous bravery on the ocean "battlefield." They faced fierce attacks by German submarines and hazardous, life threatening weather conditions in the North Atlantic.

12,000 men and women served in the Merchant Navy.

 More than 25,000 merchant ship voyages were made during the war.

 The first Canadian service casualty of the war was Hannah Baird of Quebec, a stewardess aboard the unarmed passenger liner, the S.S. Athenia. The ship was sunk by a German submarine west of Ireland on September 3, 1939 as it headed to Montreal.

GOING TO WAR

Early information gathered by British Intelligence agents about German ship movements led Canada to conscript all merchant ships two weeks before actually declaring war. On August 26, 1939 the Royal Canadian Navy took control of all shipping. Merchant crews were not compelled to sail, but most did.

 When the war began, Canada had 38 ocean-going merchant vessels. 410 merchant ships had been built in Canada by the war's end.

 Many merchant sailors knew the dangers of shipping during war. They had experienced the dangers of mines and submarines during the First World War.

 Merchant crews were given training at special schools such as the Marine Engineering Instructional School in Prescott, Ontario.

FACING THE "WOLF_PACKS"

"Wolf-packs" of German submarines, known as U-boats, preyed on merchant ships, causing heavy losses and high mortality rates for merchant crews. To protect merchant ships, the Royal Canadian Air Force supplied air escorts and the Royal Canadian Navy organized merchant ships into convoys that were accompanied by naval escorts.

 The term U-boat is from the German word for submarines, Unterseebooten (undersea boats),

 The Navy's escorts included specially designed boats such as corvettes that could outmaneuver submarines.

 German production of U-boats was so efficient that they could turn out U-boats faster than the Allies could sink them. During 1942, for example, the Germans increased the number of U-boats from 91 to 212.

 The German Navy continued to improve submarine technology during the war. For example, German scientists invented the schnorkel, a breathing device that allowed U-boats to charge their batteries underwater and stay submerged for up to 10 days. Previously, the submarines had to resurface frequently. This gave the U-boats a great tactical advantage given the Allies' air superiority and radar systems.

THE BATTLE OF THE ATLANTIC

From the very beginning of the war, German submarines tried to cut supply routes across the Atlantic, threatening the transportation of vital goods and personnel to Britain. Along with the Royal Canadian Navy and Air Force, the Merchant Navy played a key role in the six-year campaign to clear the Atlantic of U-boats.

 The Battle of the Atlantic was the only battle of the Second World War that was waged close to North American shores. German U-boats destroyed coastal shipping from the Caribbean to Halifax. During the summer of 1942, they even penetrated the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

 Early in the war, many merchant ships were lost because escorting aircraft reached the limits of their flight capacity and had to turn back before the ships reached their destinations. The Navy solved the problem by building flight decks on merchant ships, and even creating Merchant Aircraft Carriers (MACs) — tankers or grain carriers equipped with a deck and three or four aircraft.

 The Battle of the Atlantic was a battle of technology as well as guns. When the Germans developed acoustic torpedoes that homed in on the noise made by a ship's propellers, Allied scientists responded in 17 days with a noise-making device towed behind a ship that fooled the torpedo, deflecting it out of harm's way.

 Merchant seamen bore much of the brunt of the Battle of the Atlantic. The casualty rate was one in seven, a higher percentage of total casualties than those suffered by any of Canada's fighting services. Approximately 1500 Canadians died, including 8 women. As well, 59 Canadian-registered merchant ships were lost.

Remembering Victory in Europe

Edward A. Brown of Elk Point was in Holland on May 8, 1945, when Germany gave up their almost six-year fight to control Europe, and an Allied victory was declared. Victory in Europe, which came to be known as VE Day, brought about a huge celebration of the newfound peace, both in the war-torn lands and in the homelands of the men and women who had fought so hard to obtain it.

Brown was part of the gun crew of the 6th Field Regiment, 2nd Division, which had liberated Dieppe eight months earlier. He recalls that the crew had "advanced so fast we went right off our map. We were going night and day for weeks. But we never fired a gun after the 5th of May." By that time they were so worn out with the rapid advance that "all we could do was catch up on our sleep."

It had been a long war, and many of the brave young people who left their homes and families to fight it would not be coming back. In September 1944, Brown wrote a poem about one of these casualties, an Alberta boy who would never see his beloved Rockies again.

Though only a kid he lay dying,
'Midst the mud and the blood and the rain,
As he said "I know I am dying
And I'll knot see my sweetheart again.
Won't you plant me at home in the foothills,
Where the Rockies tower up to the sky,
Won't you please send me back to my darling,
Please grant my request ere I die?"

But we couldn't grant his request then
So we buried him there 'under fire'
By the foot of a giant oak tree
That towered to the sky like a spire.

We planted a cross at his head there,
With his name and the date that he fell,
And we curse as a stay-at-home soldier
Still asks us why we say war is Hell.

- Edward A. Brown

F. G. MILLER'S HANDBALL TEAM - and their coaching staff enjoyed a trip to Provincials to wind up their season.

Hitting 8th at Hand Ball Provincials

By Kelly Oszust
F. G. Miller High School reporter

Last weekend, April 21,22 and 23, the F.G. Miller girls handball team went to Edmonton to participate in Provincials.

Earlier this month, the girls attended a tournament in St. Albert, where they placed 5th after a lot of very close games. The tournament gave the girls a chance to see what kind of competition they would be up against when they went to Provincials.

While in Edmonton the girls stayed at the West Wood Inn, and all of their games took place at the Jasper Place High school. Although they placed 8th, the parents that went along, as well as the team members, thought that the whole team did a great job. "It was a good learning experience for the rookies, because most of the team are rookies."

The handball team is as follows: Sara Ramer, Alicia Nilson, Kelly Peterson, Jana Linke, Yvette Laux, Armina Kinjerski, Jill West, Christa Hammond, Denise Adkins, Carrie Baumgardner, Donna Pinder and Dennell Anderson, with coach Randall Krys and assistant coach Jason Morris. The team's highest scorer is Dennell, their best defensive players are Armina and Jill and in goal is Denise Adkins.

F. G. Miller Career Day

By Kelly Oszust
F. G. Miller High reporter

Last Thursday, April 13, F. G. Miller High School held a career day seminar. The seminar consisted of many speakers from the surrounding area who came to share their expertise with the students.

In charge of the event were Miss Kendall, Mr. Hawkins, Miss Ziomek, Mrs. Gabe Bayduza, Mr. Hellquist and Miss Smereka. Miss Ziomek said that the most difficult part of setting up career day was narrowing down all of the careers that the students picked to learn more about. But when it came to finding speakers, there were no problems. Almost everyone they asked accepted the invitation.

The reason that career day was established was so the students could get a better idea of all the jobs that are out there, and to let the students know what the academic standards are for the careers that they are interested in.

The careers which were chosen and the speakers who told about them are as follows: Ron Wiebe - Fish and Wildlife; Christy Foote with Western Horsemanship; Donna Bassett - Dental Assistant; Linda Shmyr - Rehabilitation; Loella Hurtubise - Massage Therapy; Archie Palinka - Lawyer; Kerry Hope - Park Ranger; Lorne Strymcki - Photography; Leonard Franko with careers in Art; Sherri Pinder - Nursing; Denise Maas - Accounting; Irene Zarowny - AADAC Counsellor; Billie Milholland - Writer; Rob Desjardins - Journalism; Cst. Dave Kilby - Police and Law Enforcement; Sheldon Porcina - careers in Computers; Roberta Stasyk - Pharmacy; Dr. Ken Miller - Dentist; Dr. Craig Hellquist - Veterinary Medicine; Michael Higgins - Radio and TV; Larry Lamothe - Farming; Dr. Randy Warchola - Chiropractor; Kim Willmer - Instrumentation; David Anderson - careers in Engineering; Ernest Snyder - Communications; Sergeant Taillon - Armed Forces; Shane Kossey - Electrician; Jason Pankiw, Tom Bayduza and Dean Tower - Martial Arts; Patti Laboucane - Exchange Program; Dalane Huber - Phys Ed Teacher; Bryan Bespalko - Environmental Sciences; Gary Padlesky - Guiding and Outfitting; Lawrence Ference - Diversification in Agriculture - Bison and Elk; Leonard Mickalyk - Heavy Duty Mechanic; Ashton Sewlal, Lorna Storochuk, Roger Turcotte - Alberta Power; Barb Lavoie and Brenda Hancharuk - Social Work Program, Blue Quills.

A special thanks to everyone who attended.

Canada commemorates 50th anniversaryof VE Day

OTTAWA- This spring and summer will have a different flavour in Canada, the United States, Europe and other countries around the world as the end of the Second World War is commemorated.

Canada played an important role in that war, and was changed irrevocably by it. The Canadian Army fought in Northwest Europe, mainland Italy, Sicily and Hong Kong, and ended the war by playing the key role in the liberation of the Netherlands. The royal Canadian Navy was a major player in the Allied effort to keep open the vital sea lifeline to war effort. The Royal Canadian Air Force first defended Britain and then participated in Allied air offensive against Nazi Germany. At home, Canada transformed itself in six years of war into the modern industrial state it is today.

In Canada, those epic moments in history will be commemorated in communities across the country, while in the Netherlands the Dutch people will honour Canadians as their liberators.

Events in Canada will centre on Monday, May 8, which is the 50th anniversary of VE-Day.

LEARNING ROPE TRICKS - Jeremy (far left) and Ron (centre, striped shirt) Heraid teach the 4-Hers the rudiments of calf roping at the 4-H Spring Fling in Lafond last weekend.

4-Hers enjoy a Spring Fling

Over 40 4-H club members from across Alberta's North East Region gathered in Lafond this past weekend to enjoy an informative and exhilarating series of activities and fellowship.

The 4-Hers arrived Friday evening and took part in a variety of games with new and old friends. Saturday morning they were up early for fitness exercises and a hearty breakfast to gear them up for the day's action.

Select-A-Sessions were on the schedule for both morning and afternoon, with topics covering a spectrum from first aid and hair and skin care to making denim backpacks, dream catchers and potpourri hearts, from outdoor survival and knot making to calf roping and learning more about small animals. The latter, brought in by Sue Heraid from her petting zoo collection, included a lamb, ferrets, rabbits, a hedgehog and a chinchilla.

Saturday also included baseball games and a windup supper.

Participants came from 4-H clubs in St. Lina, Innisfree/Minburn, Willingdon, Lamont, Viking, Elk Point, Myrnam, Preston, Vermilion, Rivercourse, Birch Lake, Edgerton, Bonnyville, Goodridge, Lamont, Ardmore, St. Paul, Chauvin and Vilna.

What's news at the library?

Two months until summer holidays!

By Michele Duczek
Librarian

I can't believe how fast the time has gone. It is already May and I'm still writing March on my cheques. Anyone else feel as if April just flew by?

Two more months and school will be out for another summer. One way to while away hot sunny days is on a lounge chair in the backyard with a good book. You might check out some of the following:

John Grisham bring us his first courtroom thriller since A Time to Kill. This one is called The Rainmaker. Rudy Baylor is a rookie lawyer who takes on a powerful insurance company. The problem is, Rudy is flat broke, has no job and hasn't even passed the bar yet.

The Carousel by Belva Plain tells the story of the Grey family. The family business is tottering, brothers and cousins are at each other's throats and an old secret could bring it all crumbling down.

Dads by Bruce Velick is a celebration of the many faces of fatherhood. It is a collection of photographs of fathers with their children. There is not text accompanying the pictures, but then, none is needed. Check out the introduction by Pulitzer Prize-winning columnist Dave Barry.

Witches' Brew is another Magic Kingdom of Landover novel from Terry Brooks. All Ben Holiday wants to do is enjoy his daughter's childhood. When Rydall, king of lands beyond the fairy mists, challenges Ben for control of Landover, Ben must face seven champions to protect his kingdom and his daughter.

Border Music by Robert James Waller is the story of Texas Jack Carmine and Linda Lobo, two people who have seen life, made hard choices, and are still looking for something more.

Remember, the library also has books and videos to help counterattack the dreaded summer boredom suffered so often by children during the months of July and August. Get a start on summer... check out the library today.

Fun and Furry kicks off show season

By Charlene Baker

Elk Point Agricultural Society

Sunday, April 23 was a beautiful day for the first training horse show of the season, the Tall Horse Saddlery Fun and Furry, which was held at the Elk Point Agricultural Society Livestock Division Arena. Although it was very hard to find a furry horse, everyone had lots of fun.

The judge for the day was Tom Mirault of Bon Accord and all prizes were sponsored by Duane Warren of Tall Horse Saddlery, Edmonton.

There was a full range of Western and English classes with Junior and Senior categories. There were a total of 40 competitors, a good turnout for the first show.

High Point Champion gift certificates were awarded to Shanna Baker on Serene Liberty Lee in the 16 and Over category, Allan Baker on Kinda Catty in the 15 and Under division and Ashley Larson on Tivio in the 12 and Under. In reserve were Kim Eremko on Reg Baron in the 16 and Over, Amanda Ferris on Bahais Bandito in the 15 and Under and Lana Graham on Rafferty Raffene in the 12 and Under group. Penny Smith riding Buddy was awarded the Furriest Horse gift certificate.

The Livestock Division would like to thank all those that participated and volunteered their time to help out with the show: Hughie Krucik, our show secretary and Connie Capjack, our gate steward, Wendy Young, Josie Veer, Daphne Schnurer, Shauna Campbell, Peter Veer, Brian Schnurer, Tara Campbell and Danielle Schnurer. A big thank you also goes out to Glen Harms for setting up and donating our sound system which has come in very handy.
